ACADEMIC CONFERENCES AND COLLABORATIONS

Conferences and Events Organized

“Italian Fascism in Global Context” 2023

Today, we need to understand how Fascism, of Italian origins, operates on a global stage. This talk series brings together Pamela Ballinger (U Michigan), Mia Fuller (UC Berkeley), and Emma Bond (Oxford), three leading scholars of Fascism, gender, and migration to ask critical questions: Why are so many Strong Men women? How did Fascist imperialism set the stage for later autocracies? What happens when Fascism travels? This project was sponsored by the UO Oregon Humanities Center, the Department of Romance Languages and Literatures, and the Mediterranean Symposium.

“Anti-Fascist Cocktail Hour” 2018

Organized event to create civil discourse around a problematic historical recipe with Chris Behr (AAR Head Chef), Brandon Clifford (MIT), Jessica Peritz (Yale), and the Rome Sustainable Food Project. This project staged an edible experiment in creating civil discourse: together a historian, a chef, an architect, and a musician recreated a cocktail from F.T. Marinetti’s La cucina futurista (The Futurist Cookbook), a recipe with Fascist associations. This project was sponsored by the American Academy in Rome Fellows Collaborative Project Grant.

“The Language of Food: Exploring Representations of the Culinary in Culture” 2011 – 2012
Coordinated Architecture, Italian, Anthropology, Vintner, and Brewer panels, keynotes, curated exhibit “Italianissimo: Avant-Garde Food Advertising” at Olin Kroch Rare Books Library, and assisted Whitten Overby’s curation of “Consuming Food in Space” photography and object exhibit at Johnson Museum, Jimena Roses-Sierra’s curation “Menu Morsels” exhibit at Kroch Rare Books Library.
